EOS International Releases 3 New Products: EOS.Web Academic, Legal, and Medical

Providing Academic, Legal, and Medical Librarians the Ultimate Tools for Success

(Carlsbad, CA – July 9, 2010) - EOS International announced the introduction of the EOS.Web Academic, Legal and Medical products that will add to the line of solutions provided by the leading library automation software and knowledge management solutions company.

EOS.Web Academic is designed to provide specialized services to expanding academic library client base. “Some of our longest standing and most satisfied clients are our academic libraries. It only makes sense to expand our EOS.Web product line to target the specific needs of educational institutions,” said Salvatore Provenza, Vice President of Global Sales & Marketing. Some of the current EOS U.S and International Academic client’s include: Hartford Seminary Library, Centro Colombo Americano de Medellin, and Charleston School of Law.

EOS.Web Legal helps law firms to manage the growth of the firm by providing the library with a system that will incorporate multiple libraries around the country. Each feature is intuitively integrated to offer a library automation solution that saves you time and resources, bringing your library the kind of efficiency that your entire firm will notice. Provenza states, “As a leading vendor to the legal library community, we hold the largest percent of the top US 250 legal libraries using our product.” Some of the EOS.Web Legal clients include: Loeb & Loeb LLP, Andrews Kurth LLP., and Bilzin Sumberg Baena Price & Axelrod LLP.

With EOS.Web Medical, each feature is intuitively integrated to offer a library automation solution that saves you time and resources. Never before have medical libraries had a library automation solution as cognizant of its specific research needs. EOS.Web Medical offers an unmatched collection of functionalities that will significantly impact your medical library’s research capabilities. Some of the current EOS Medical client’s include: St. Joseph Medical Center, Clarian Health Library, and St. Francis Medical Center.
