EOS International Business Success in 2010

(Carlsbad, CA – February 02, 2011) EOS International, a leader in library automation and Software-as-a-Service (SaaS), announces that business has never been better as the company celebrates their 30th year of providing automation solutions to libraries.

EOS welcomed ninety-eight new clients in 2010. “EOS is proud of its sales accomplishments for 2010 and we predict steady growth throughout 2011”, states Salvatore Provenza, Vice President of Global Sales and Marketing. A few of EOS’ new clients include: AARP, Children’s Hospital of Pittsburgh, Colorado Corrections, Fox Networks, Indiana University, Le Cordon Bleu College, National Gallery (UK), New York Law Institute, Pearl Harbor AFB, RAND Corporation, and VA Medical Center DC. New EOS clients include 15 law firms, ten of whom are in the top 250 law firms published by the Internet Legal Research Group. The largest firms joining the EOS family are Dechert, Cooley, Ogletree Deakins, and Fox Rothschild.

“In this competitive library automation market, our record-setting positive growth is a testament to the exceptional value, robust product offerings, and unparalleled client support provided by EOS”, states Salvatore Provenza. Due to increased demand for EOS.Web and EOS’ market-leading SaaS client base, over the past few months, EOS has added staff in Research & Development, Client Services, and Sales and Marketing.

EOS released several new products in 2010, extending its product offerings to meet the specific needs of its clients including the release of EOS.Web Academic, Legal, Medical, and Digital while offering several new features including Course Reserves for Academic Libraries, Electronic Resource Management, and enhanced Reference Tracking.
